(Holtville, Ala., Weekly Visitor)
"The outer portals of the Mahoney residence resembled that of the carillon place at West Minister Abbey in England and were almost hidden from distant view by high priced limousines and other cars of costly make for it was the swellest wedding this town has ever saw and Miss Holt's society friends came from far and near to be present at the nuptials and many groomed chaffers parked their cars in and around the spacious lawns surrounding the residence. Miss Holt looked particularly lovely and the same was true of the bridesmaid, Miss Irma Yellan and the amphicampy displayed the latest word and masterly touch of Sartorial art in the array of full dress and big hats and parisienne femmes of fashion first ascended the gateway to the nuptial entourage."

Of Many Matters

A number of matters came up under routine business at the meeting of the council last evening, and were disposed of.

On the recommendation of Councilman Frank E. Tiller, of the light committee, a street light was ordered moved to the corner of San Pablo and McEvoy avenues.

The ordinance amending the present traffic ordinance and providing for the handling of traffic by the Junior Traffic patrol, in connection with the police department, was adopted.

A letter was received from Hollis Thompson, city manager of Berkeley, thanking the council for its favorable action on the adoption of the unified harbor improvement plan for the east bay.

City Board
Turns Down
Dairy Plea

The plea of 55 residents in the Annex district that the present milk ordinance be amended so that residents could maintain dairies of eight cows in the city limits, instead of two, as at present, was turned down by the city council at its meeting last evening.

The request was made on the basis that it would provide an opportunity for some of those out of work to make a living and not become objects of charity.

Councilman George F. Imbach stated that with the other members of the health committee he had visited the Annex district, and found one of the barns there, where a dairy was being conducted, in a most deplorable condition.

So far as he was concerned he was against any change in the milk ordinance as it would open the door for many abuses, and would endanger the lives of the people of the city, through the vending of impure milk.

Councilman Ludwig, one of those who made a tour of the district, said the present ordinance was a protective measure, that the people in that district could not afford to put in the proper equipment to conform to the state laws, and furthermore the land was all in 25-foot lots, and the council could not give a permit for the use of these lots.

City Health Officer Dr. C. R. Blake was then called upon and he said that he could not agree to any change in the present milk ordinance, in fact, further restrictions about the handling of cows should be added.

He asserted it had taken years of work to clear the city of dairies, and they should not be permitted to return.

"Richmond has one of the best records in the state along sanitary lines," the official stated, "and nothing should be done by the council that would impair the health of the people of the city."

Then came the vote, which adopted the recommendation of the health committee denying the petition of the residents.

HERCULES MAN DIES
FROM MYSTERY SHOT

PROSECUTION
AID LAMSON

SAN JOSE, Calif., Aug. 28.—UP—David Lamson changed from a jovial young man into a hysterical person who fell in a faint upon his discovery of the body of his wife.

Alone, witnesses testified today at his trial on charges of murdering her.

The curious situation of prosecutors, attempting to secure a death verdict, calling witnesses whose testimony aided the defense excited today.

Opening testimony last Friday had the same result, when, anxious surgeons said Mrs. Lamson's skull could have been fractured either by an assailant or in an accidental fall.

Of today's witnesses only one gave testimony that may aid the prosecution in its demand for the death penalty.

She was Mrs. Sylvia D. Bailey, neighbor who said that between 8 and 8:15 a.m. on May 30, Lamson was burning cloth in his backyard bonfire.

It was believed the state later would attempt to prove remnants of the cloth were stained with blood, and that Lamson thereafter knew of his wife's death two hours before his "discovery" of her body.

The state charged that Lamson, 31-year-old salesman of the Stanford University press, beat his wife to death. The right of May 29 she allegedly resorted to a rage to reveal his advances and persuaded him to sleep in another room. She was found dead at 10 a.m. the next day.

A detailed story of discovery of the lifeless body of the young mother in her husband's bed today. Witnesses told of blood smudges and stains on Lamson's clothing and throughout the Lamson home, it, because of danger of an overdose.

Gessnar's widow lived at Santa Barbara.

The young husband was hysterical and grief-stricken following his discovery of the body, the state witnesses testified.

Members of the exclusive San Francisco Peninsula society colony attended the trial. Among them were the novelists, Katherine and Charles G. Norris.

Helen Vincent, neighbor of the Lamsons, testified that at 9:50 a.m. on May 30 she saw Lamson working in his back yard. He was striving to the waist.

"He smiled and was friendly," she said. "There wasn't a thing unusual in his conduct."

Fifteen minutes later, she saw (Continued on Page Eight)

Budget Is Approved
After Row

The budget for the coming year was officially adopted by the Richmond city council last evening, and the first reading of a tax ordinance establishing the levy was given.

The tax rate in the city of Richmond proper will be $2.21, and in the Annex district $1.77.

The Annex rate is lower, because some harbor bonds were voted before they became a part of this city.

The budget provides for the raising of $619,170 or $23,470 less than last year, bringing about a reduction of 1 cent in the tax rate, notwithstanding there was a 10 per cent increase in the assessment roll.

The tax rate in the old district of Richmond and the Annex district will be as follows:

	Old	Annex
General fund	$1.485	$1.185
Bond funds	.625	.185
Library fund	.09	.09
School fund	.01	.01

Total $2.21 $1.77

When the budget matter first came up, Councilman Ludwig stated that he would be compelled to vote against it, as he did not think the economy in city affairs was increased to the extent that it should be.

He asserted the council had gone on much on what had happened in the past years, and that too much economy was shown in the conduct of some of the city departments.

Scott Sneaks

COUNCILMAN SCOTT: "We have not in a great deal of time in the preparation of this budget, and there are any definite reasons for making any changes I have failed to hear them mentioned yet."

"Notwithstanding there has been a loss of two million in the assessment roll, we have been able to reduce the tax rate 1 cent, which I think is a very creditable showing. If there is any desire on the part of the council to postpone the adoption of this budget, it is all right with me, but I don't like to see our members try to make a hero out of himself at the expense of the other members of this body."

LUDWIG: "I don't want to make a hero out of myself, but I represent the taxpayers, and where savings can be made they should be effected. During the hearings on the budget, I brought up proposed cuts in the operation of the chamber of commerce, in the city attorney's office, in the building department and in the city assessor's office, and a plan was only taken on some of these. Last year there was a deficit in the operation of the auditorium of nearly $5,000 and we have done nothing about it."

Parr Terminal Criticized By Auditing Firm

Lauds and Bowden, certified accountants last night presented to the city council, a report of their audit of the books of the City of Richmond for the past fiscal year, and also an examination of the books of the Parr Terminal corporation.

The report showed that the accounts of the different departments of the city were correct, and that all money collected for taxes, fines and forfeitures, licenses and permits had been properly accounted for.

The experts took exception to the manner the Parr Terminal corporation is keeping its books on the operation of what No. 1 at Point San Pablo. A certain amount is being charged off every month by the corporation for anticipated repairs. And it is claimed that all that should be charged up is for the actual repairs made.

Mayor Walter Johnson instructed City Manager J. A. McVittie to get in touch with the Parr corporation, and have the book keeping method remedied.

It was claimed that by charging off "anticipated repairs" this item would eat up the portion the city should receive from the Parr.

Without a word, they walked up behind the two men and fired a dozen shots into their backs, killing them instantly.

The assassins walked out calmly and entered in a waiting auto.

Circumstances led police to investigate the possibility of gangster revenge.

The only identification on Metz was an unsigned telegram from St. Louis, which read:

LARRY METZ
FOUND DEAD
BY FATHER

A jagged bullet hole in his head, the body of Lawrence Henry Metz, 24, was found in the kitchen, of his Hercules home yesterday afternoon.

The youth, who apparently had been alone in the house, was crumpled on the kitchen floor with an overturned chair beside him. His right hand clutched a pistol and his left was badly powder-burned.

On the kitchen table lay the holster of the gun.

Found By Father

His body was discovered by his father, Garrie Metz, employe of the Hercules Powder company.

The elder Metz returned to work to find the house quiet. He discovered the boy in the kitchen and immediately notified authorities.

Investigation into the shooting revealed that a neighbor, Mrs. Bert Weiss, had apparently been the last person to see the youth alive.

She stated that she had talked with him from across the street about one p. m.

Accident Theory

The boy's face was not powder burned indicating that the pistol had been some distance from his face when fired. He had apparently intended cleaning it, and had been sitting with it in his lap.

The weapon was an old style .25 calibre Colt pistol. The cylinder was exposed, and authorities believe that the powderburned fingers and thumb on his hand are due to this fact.

The bullet had entered the boy's mouth, and coming out the top of his head lodged in the ceiling. His head had apparently been in a forward position. His left knee was skinned from his fall from the chair to the floor.

Let No Note

There were no notes indicating suicide and no evidence of despondency or other reasons that might have caused his self-destruction.

No one had been seen leaving or entering the house which is located at No. 3 Pinole street, Hercules.

Mrs. Marie Metz, mother of the deceased, who has been in ill-health for some time has been staying in Richmond with her two daughters, Alice and Gladys Metz. The two girls are both employed in local stores and have been residing at 520 Tenth street.

To Hold Inquest

The body is at the Wilson and Kratzer chapel, where funeral arrangements are pending. Coroner Aubrey Wilson will hold an inquest into the case.

Young Metz was born in Santa Cruz and resided in Hercules for 18 years. He graduated from the Richmond high school. For some time he had been without regular employment, occasionally working for short intervals.

He had visited Oakland Sunday in company with his uncle and had seemed in the best of spirits.

Speaking Of Sports

SEATTLE, Aug. 28 (P)—During a tournament he watches golf in the lobby of a hotel until 1 a. m. Then he goes to bed and awakes the next morning tired.

That's Albert "Scotty" Campbell who, with Frank Delp of Portland, was a northwest sectional qualifier for the national amateur golf tournament to be held in Vancouver in September. Delp, ex-western champion, scored 128 and was low qualifier over the entire country.

Plays Better Tired

"I play better when I'm tired," Scotty explained. "It relieves the tension and I'm relaxed and can't tighten up. But," he shrugged, "I guess the doctors think I'm nuts."

Campbell is the latest sensation of the northwest golfing world.

The last who, on August 20 will eat cake in celebration of his 20th birthday, never has taken a golf lesson. He started caddyding at 10.

Then this summer, within two weeks, he won the Pacific Northwest amateur and the Canadian amateur.

He drove back in an old car from Vancouver, B. C., to Seattle, following the latter journey. He arrived about 4 a. m. At 7 a. m. he was on his way across the mountains to Spokane—340 miles distant—to take part in the Washington state open.

Met Test

Overzealous, he nevertheless was low amateur in the 72-hole medalist. He shot a 70 as part of the following state amateur qualifying round, and then so tired that even his sturdy constitution could no longer function—he'd lost fourteen pounds in three days—the doctory Scott declared a moratorium on golfing for awhile.

Already he has a mantelful of trophies. Seattle golf fans hope he gets the national amateur trophy, and so will Portland golfers if Frank Delp is championed, because this ruddy-cheeked lad has captured the hearts and fancies of every club-winner in the northwestern, regardless of community.

Don't Take

Pills For

Constipation

Ordinary pills taken to relieve constipation merely force a movement of the bowels without making the liver dispose its excess bile. That's why the trouble returns in a day or two and you have to swallow more pills.

What every constipated person needs is a good liver tonic like Plantax to thoroughly cleanse the digestive system of all foul secretions and at the same time restore the liver to its normal working order.

When this is done you will no longer have frequent headaches, coated tongue, yellow skin, sour stomach, gas, bloated attacks or other symptoms of constipation and liver trouble.

Plantax is made from the juices of barberry medicinal plants—Nature's own remedy—that act in a mild, easy way without weakening or irritating the organs. Try it tonight. Large bottle $1 at any good drug store.

4000 BATTLE FOREST BLAZE

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 28.—Confident that the worst forest fire in Oregon's history will shortly be under control, leaders of organizations battling flames in Tillamook, Washington, Clatsop and Columbia counties sent their more than 4000 troops into action with a new offensive plan today.

The principal point of the offensive is in the Nestucco river country about 20 miles south of Tillamook, toward which the southern edge of the conflagration, extending along a 50-mile front, is driving.

Hundreds of men were rushed into this section early today.

A dead calm, the direct opposite of the gales that rushed the flames through more than 1200 square miles of valuable timber last week, was aiding the fire-fighters early today.

Lumber men, whose holdings have been swept by the flames, have estimated that probably six billion feet of timber has been destroyed or damaged with a loss of approximately $18,000,000 in prospect.

SAFWAYS TAKE ELKS FOR RIDE

The Berkeley Colored Elks and the Safeway Stores showed up for the third game Sunday at the Oakland ball park, at 2:30, and the sun broke through the clouds for the first time in four days of the tournament.

The Elks rooting section swelled the total to about 500 for a record attendance of these games. As a feature, the Elks put on a little act entitled "Shadow Base ball". The infielders took their positions and faked through an entire infield practice.

The stunt drew a great hand. The finale of the act was an imaginary pop fly behind pitcher's box with the entire team coming in. The ball supposedly dropped on the "noggin" of Martin Elks, shortstop, putting him out for the count with his mates packing off the field.

This was the third elimination game of the tournament and the Elks were the unfortunate team much to the dismay of the fans as the Elks are a big drawing card and have one of the biggest followings in semi-pro ball.

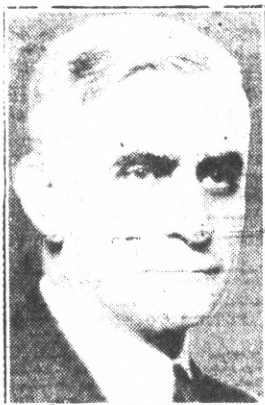

The game was tight for four innings with the Safeway Stores leading 1 to 0.

The Elks came out strong in the first of the fifth and went into the lead when they scored two markers, but the lead was short lived as the Stores nine scored six to give them a comfortable margin in the last of the fifth.

The final score was 9 to 3 with the Safeway scoring one in the sixth and eighth innings.

MALT TOSSERS BEAT PETALUMA

The 12:30 game Sunday in the North State tournament held an important spot as Petaluma was beaten by the Square Deal Malt tossers who pounded Sid Hansen to all corners of the lot to score a total of 17 runs to Petaluma's 3.

The weather proved to be much warmer and by the start of the game 6000 fans filled the bleachers and the reserved section. Petaluma rooters were much in evidence.

The Malt tossers led throughout the entire game with a rally of eight runs coming in the ninth inning.

Two errors by Petaluma and a hit by Le Veque drove in the first run of the game for the Malt tossers. Two walks, hits by Connors, Salmon and Le Veque gave the Malt tossers a 5-to-0 lead in the second.

Petaluma scored in the second when a walk and hits by Hoss and Vallier produced the first Petaluma tally.

The Malt tossers led one in the third but were held to the seventh before they could score again.

Petaluma scored two in the third on two errors by the Malt tossers, and a walk, and the score to 6 to 5, in favor of the Malt tossers.

Petaluma blew up in the seventh and donated the Malt tossers three on a walk and three errors.

The Malt tossers went on to the ninth Monzo, c. 5 1 2 0 and clinched the game when they drove in a total of eight markers. This spelled the end of Sid Hansen who had pitched fine ball for the Petaluma nine. Six hits, two walks and an error were responsible for the rally. Counts relieved Hansen, but two runs were scored off him before he could retire the side.

Francis Le Veque, Malt catcher, was the 1/2 gun with the willow when he drove out four bingles in five trips to the plate. Salmon hit three for five and Connors hit two doubles and scored four times in four attempts.

Silva doubled for the Petaluma team in two official times at bat to lead the visitors.

Lancione and Fuller starred in the field for Petaluma.

Thirty-two years ago the late E. M. Tilden started in the lumber business with a few houses and a few firms here then, but his methods of honest merchandising and buying soon built for him a prosperous business, today with yards in Richmond and at the foot of University avenue.

During the past several weeks we have given our readers an adequate insight to what we have in the way of representative lines of usefulness and industry and while they mean to our city and county, we have always maintained the same quality and service.

The Tilden Lumber company has unlimited buying power, they are thus able to go into the largest lumber mills, demand the best at the lowest possible prices and pass this saving on to their customers.

For all kinds of lumber, millwork, sash and doors, and certain products the Tilden Lumber company has the most complete stock whether you wish to build a small house or a large industrial plant.

The service to the small builder is the same as to the large one, and their trucks for rapid delivery service are continually on the road here and in various parts of the county.

NUDISM AID TO TELESCOPE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28 (UP)—Though officially nudism has been banned here, there is many a long-distance appraisal.

This was learned recently when an eye for anyone satisfied with an unofficial inquiry was made in the sudden popularity of a powerful telescope atop the 36-floor Philadelphia Savings Fund Society building.

The telescope is a dime-a-look affair. It is mounted on a movable platform, has adjustable lenses and can be trained in any direction.

Mostly it is trained upon three or four house-tops where nudists have found their place in the sun.

Seldom is it seen pointing to any historic spot, of which there are many, and never does a visitor to the tower "other than looking via the telescope, at such mundane things as League Island, the Delaware river or Camden, N. J.

Since the existence of the sun-worshippers on near or remote house-tops has been revealed, all other attractions have been overlooked.

Oh Boy! Wait 'till Jimmie Hears o' This

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (UP)—Nineteen gun salutes for distinguished visitors have become almost daily occurrences at the world's fair, but today was the first time that there has been a 21-gun salute.

The first salute of this nature was given for his highness, Maharaja Gaekwar Sir Sayaji Rao III of Gakwar, India. He is here for the world's first fellowship of faiths conference and is the highest ranking person to visit the fair.

The 19-gun salute is given for governors and other high officials who enter the fair grounds. Only the President of the United States or a member of a royal family rates the 21-gun salute.

Another visitor who would have rated a 21-gun salute except for a change of government in Nippon, also attended the fair today. He is Prince Iyemoto Tokiawa, whose father was the last of the Shoguns of the Nipponese empire.

The Maharaja disappointed a large crowd by entering the fair wearing a typical American business suit. He had left his royal raiment in Paris.

Bomb Wrecks Beer Parlor

CHICO, Aug. 28.—A dynamite blast which partially wrecked a gasoline station, set gasoline tanks afire, threw the station owner and his wife from their beds, broke windows in a radius of four blocks and awakened practically every resident in Chico, was being investigated by police today.

The blast occurred early in the morning at the combined service station and beer parlor operated by I. Greitzer and his wife.

Greitzer had been selling beer for 5 cents a glass, and it was hinted this was the reason behind the blast.

Police found parts of a stick of dynamite and fuse in the wreckage, and declared there was no doubt the blast had been caused by a dynamite bomb.

The dynamite had been placed near the gasoline pump. The pump and the front of the station were wrecked.

The hose on the pump was cut by the explosion and gasoline, gushing forth, was set ablaze. Greitzer and his wife were badly shaken but were not injured by the concussion.

It was at first thought that the underground gasoline tank had exploded, but this was found intact and later traces of a dynamite bomb were discovered.

Greitzer told police he believed he knew who the bomber might be, but the identity of the suspect was not revealed.

Her company, the Victoria, also on Alaska Steamship company boat, will take her passengers and cargo north.

STATE TO POUR DOLLARS INTO HIGHWAY WORK

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 28.—UP—At the rate of more than $1,000,000 a week, the State of California will pour out money to employ men in highway construction. Earl Lee Kelly, director of public works told the United Press tonight.

The flood of money will be directed into employment channels starting next month.

On September 13, bids on $4,380,000 of highway work will be opened. On September 20, another $2,000,000 will be ordered spent.

On September 27, Kelly will open another $2,000,000 in bids.

"From October 1 until the first of next year," Kelly said, "an average of $1,000,000 in bids will be opened and contracts let."

"By the first of the year, I expect to have 50,000 men at work on highways of the state."

The projects, estimated, will provide four-and-a-half million man days of employment.

"Ninety cents of every highway dollar goes for labor," he continued. "Our estimates call for 16,000 men to be directly employed on highway building and for 34,000 to be at work for road material concerns and similar companies."

Your Good HEALTH

By CLAUD N. CHRISMAN, M.D.

Health Offices Help Prevent Many Dangerous Diseases

IT is the duty of the Board of Health Officer of the city, state, or county, to keep the public informed by pamphlets or the daily papers, of the fact that many diseases are almost entirely preventable. It is now true that diphtheria, scarlet fever, mumps, whooping cough, measles, typhoid fever, and many other common diseases are preventable.

child can be immunized against these diseases without doing the child any harm. If, after being immunized, a child does contract one of these diseases, it will be in a mild form. Unfortunately, immunizing does not always prevent the recurrence of a disease. Every doctor has seen persons who have had two or more attacks of scarlet fever, mumps, whooping cough, and the like. Consequently we cannot expect vaccination against a disease always to prevent an attack of that disease. Nevertheless, parents are derelict who do not have their children protected against such ailments.

TODAY every city and state, and most towns and counties, have their local health associations and officers. Their powers and duties are manifold. Just in the past week I have had occasion to see their workings. I happened to notice that in one of our ball parks a great bunch of poison ivy was growing in a very prominent place, where many people would come in contact with it. I reported this fact to our health officer. The next day all trace of poison ivy was gone and the health officer thanked me for calling his attention to the condition.

A FEW days ago, in visiting a home, I noticed an unusually large number of flies about a door. I inquired the cause, and was informed that neighbors had an open garbage can and kept several milk pails in a kitchen in the same yard. This was also reported; the next day there was a general cleaning up about these premises. The inspector had found other things that were not clean, and it was not because of poverty.

IN MY own city the Board of Health has been doing many things. Typhoid fever, malaria, and tuberculosis were the diseases that took most of my time during my first years of practice. They are almost entirely gone now. Malaria is carried by mosquitoes; so we eliminate mosquitoes. Typhoid fever is carried principally in water and milk. If you live in the country you should have the water in your well or spring examined for typhoid. If you send a sample of the water to your county or state board, they will examine it for you free of charge and inform you of their findings, good or bad.

THERE is a queer thing about typhoid in your drinking water. The germs may be in the water for some time and none of the family contract it, but a stranger coming and drinking the water may contract the disease quickly. If one of the family is weakened by some other sickness, he is very likely to develop typhoid.

PERSONS living in the country or the city where flies predominate, should do all in their power to eliminate them or at least to prevent their coming in contact with food and cooking utensils. The flies' feet are covered with clusters of little hairs that hold and carry any thing moist or sticky with which they come in contact. The fly comes into your house and settles on your choicest bit of food, and he doesn't wash his feet before doing it! Swat him! Catch him with sticky fly paper! Any way, so that you kill him. Our first health officer many years ago began by offering prizes to the public for the largest collection of dead flies. It sounds like a joke now, but it was great sport and a fine project then. Our present director makes his early spring message a clarion call to kill the first fly, which means millions before the season is over.

Unpleasant Room Odor

A good way of removing unpleasant odors from a room is to take a lump of carbonate ammonia and put it into a common tin, pouring over it a little perfume or toilet water. The ammonia will absorb the extract. Then pour in half a cup or less of boiling water and set it in the center of the room.

YOUR COIFFURE CAN EXPRESS PERSONALITY

By JACQUELINE HUNT

WHEN planning a coiffure for yourself think of the hair as the crown of your whole figure and as a frame for the face, and you will achieve a much nicer balance in your hair arrangement as well as more originality. Another secret of successful coiffures is hair that is in excellent condition before it is styled. The waves and ringlets can be trained to stay where they are wanted.

Certain types of personalities are best expressed by certain types of haircuts, too. If you want your hair to express an unsophisticated personality, let it go soft and bushy around your ears with no attempt at formal lines or grooming. Not many women can wear this informal line successfully—only the very young or the woman with regular, delicate features and a vivacious personality can be attractive with such a hairdress.

An Informal Coiffure
The next step—for a coiffure that is informal, yet more restrained—is to train the waves to lie a little flatter to the head with a few curls around the ears or nape of the neck. Such a hairdress is subtle but it is a step in the right direction, and more women can wear it becomingly.

When you really want to catch that elusive thing called "personality," your hairdress will be different from those worn by other women. Have your hair thinned out if necessary, perhaps worn almost straight across the top with traces of waves, ringlets, curls or bangs where you need them to bring out lovely features or to create interesting effects.

And then for daring moments, or for an experiment, every woman sophisticated for a change—extreme coiffure, extreme hats and dresses. Strong features or slightly irregular ones can best stand the sophisticated hair cut—sleek, smooth, bold. Try it if you feel like you dare—no harm is done if you want to change back again and you may discover hidden possibilities in yourself by the experiment.

Right now coiffure artists are stressing femininity and individuality. There is sophistication, yes, in the latest coiffures, but they are soft and lovely and feminine. They are away from unusual parings, unusual waves, unusual curls and curls or bangs in unexpected places. They tend to be smooth and sculptured, but they are never hard, never conflicting with the lines of your features or with your personality.

Consider Your Forehead
In deciding on your coiffure one of the points to be considered is the height of your forehead. If it is low, then the hair should always be swept back and away from your face and the waves around the top kept shallow and smooth. If your forehead is high then you can afford to wear soft bangs, waves, or flat, nicely trained little curls.

Try to have something unusual and individual about your hairdress. No matter how you arrange it, unfortunately many hairdressers arrange the hair in the common "curtain drape" manner of big dips around the face. Remember that the smooth line around the face and over the top of the head is the smart, well-groomed hair style of the moment. No kinks or frizzes or tight curls around the face and ears.

When you arrange your hair and apply your make-up try not to have a confusing background back of you to distract your attention. You cannot achieve smoothness either in your coiffure or your make-up unless you get a clear reflection of yourself in your mirror. The way they do it in the movies is to drop a sheet of window shade arrangement behind the head of the star who is being made up for her part.

MODES AND MANNERS

QUESTION: "If food which one does not like is served at a friend's table, how much of it is one obliged to eat?"

—Howard McL.

ANSWER: As much as he finds necessary in order to keep up a pretense of eating. To take a taste and put it down one's fork or spoon would be as rude as to leave one's dish untouched. Persons who have violent likes or dislikes, faddy food tastes that have no business to accept invitations to dine with friends. It is just as much the guest's duty not to offend the host as it is the host's duty not to offend the guest.

Tasty Dishes for Today

CHEESE SOLVES MILK PROBLEMS

By JUDITH WILSON

WHEN you prepare the delicious dishes made from cottage cheese, do you realize how many problems it helps you solve? It contains all of the excellent food properties of milk so you are giving more milk to your family in concentrated form. It lends itself to cool, nourishing dishes for hot days. It helps you save money on the food budget and helps you cut down your hours spent in the kitchen.

In planning a menu that includes cheese, remember that it is a close-textured food and should be combined with plenty of bulky vegetables, breads and fruits. Let cheese take the place of meat or eggs in the diet occasionally.

I have several recipes for you that will give you an idea of the many ways in which cheese can appear in the menu.

Cheese Rolls

Cheese rolls are a special treat for dinner or luncheon. Make the dough by softening one-half cake compressed yeast in one-fourth cup lukewarm water. Add four tablespoons sugar, one teaspoon salt and four tablespoons fat to one cup of scalded milk in a mixing bowl. When lukewarm add the softened yeast and four enough to make a dough as soft as can be handled and kneaded. Cover and let rise to double the bulk, punch down and let rise again. Toss on a floured board and roll out one-half inch thick. Cut into three-inch squares and spread with the following mixture:

Mix one and one-half cups cottage cheese, one-half cup sugar, one egg yolk, one-half tablespoon flour, one-half tablespoon butter, and lemon rind or nutmeg to flavor. Cook over hot water until thick. Cool and place a tablespoon of the mixture in the center of each square. Fold over, pinch the edges together and place in a greased pan. Brush the tops with melted butter, let rise until light and bake in a hot oven.

A Delicious Cheese Ring

For the molded cheese ring, soak one tablespoon gelatin in two tablespoons cold water and dissolve over hot water. Mash one cup of cream cheese and two cups of cottage cheese together and blend with two tablespoons chopped green pepper, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon scraped onion, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and a few grains of cayenne. Add the gelatin and pour into a ring mold that has

New York—How like 1890 it sounds to talk about separate skirts, pleated or otherwise, yet in sports circles they are quite agog over the new plaid, striped and novelty skirts that are pleated by one process or another. With these you are to wear a contrasting blouse, and this reminds me to tell you that there are velveteens, also velveteens for the purpose, not to mention jackets of several kinds, some of which have that Norfolk-jacket look which, something told us all along, would be revived.

There seems a bit of a danger of looking stuffy in these heavy, dark colored dresses, built up to the neckline, but who can look Victorian without being perilously near to looking stuffy, too?

Box Pleats in Vogue

Box pleats are being used again in the bodies of dresses, in jackets and lower coats, frequently open, but sometimes stitched down. They are usually at the back but sometimes carry their tuxedo effect around to the front as well.

The shirtwaists with three pleats at the back and the leather jackets with box golf pleats held into a trim line by knitted or latex fabric on the inside are further examples.

It won't be long now before fall coats are not only of general but personal interest. You will find plenty of variety, with and without fur. Eel and the darker grays, including mouse, being the novel color range, you will perhaps be tempted to choose one of these very practical tones, particularly in a mixture.

Gray Over Black

A black coat over a gray dress may please you better than a gray coat over a black one, but it is not as new looking. The white coat over black vanities with the rose, and in its place come gray, the autumnal interpretation of the same, light over dark, idea.

With your gray coat, wear either black or brown accessories. Brown ones are very chic. Remember, though, one cannot select any old brown and expect it to harmonize with any old gray.

Home-Making

By ALINE STERN

Next time you plan sandwiches for an outing, try a mustard butter spread. Blend two tablespoons of prepared mustard with half a cup of butter. This may be used plain or mixed with a cup of celery or minced cold meat. Cream cheese may be used instead of butter.

There is a handy vegetable grater on the market that is a silver, too. In fact, it has so many uses that anyone acquainted with it wonders how she ever was able to manage without it. It can be used for mincing things for creaming, for example, for cold slaw and for slicing carrots, cucumbers, cheese. This device will cut your potatoes for French frying as well. It is safe and easy to handle and comes with five different disks for grating.

Years ago when she was an ardent suffragist, she made a thorough study of tax intricacies of economics. She did such a good job of her studies that she soon became known as a tax expert. She says that having a husband has not interfered with her career in serving for the Government's revenue in and around Chicago.

"Ford Empire" Holds Chain of Industrial Enterprises in Firm Grip

THE "flivver" and its creator are distinctly a part of the modern world and will go down in history as vital factors of the age of mass production. Other motor car builders seek to produce a machine for every-sized pocketbook, but Henry Ford made no such effort. He began with an automobile that was an instrument of locomotion and nothing else, the cheapest possible, and ends with the manufacture of one of the most expensive cars on the market.

The usual procedure employed in telling about the Ford industry is to begin by repeating the oft-said story that "an institution is the lengthened shadow of a man," and before describing the company, to tell something of the romance of Henry Ford himself. "The man whose vision and labor it incarnates and by whose spirit it is led." Then the biographer describes the birth of Henry Ford in 1863 in a modest farm house near Dearborn, Michigan. His unusual aptitude for mechanics, his climb to fame and fortune with his "tin lizzie" and finally his organization in 1903 of the Ford Motor Company, with paid-in capital of a paltry $250,000.

MORE romantic, in a way, than Ford himself is the "Ford Empire." The Ford corporation as it exists today is a typical vertical trust. Its aim has been to control every process necessary for the production of an automobile, from the mining of the ore to the selling of the finished product to the dealer. The Ford organization of today represents a complete industrial chain in which every link has been strongly constructed. Raw materials, transportation and manufacturing are entirely under the company's control. The Ford industries therefore, are somewhat outside the pall of price fluctuations or shortage of raw materials, such as coal, iron, and timber, since every stage of transportation from the mines and the forest to the finished product is regulated.

This situation is not 100 percent true in 1933 for various reasons. However, the Ford Empire comprises thirty-five plants in the United States and several abroad. The parent plant is in Highland Park, on the outskirts of Detroit, and has a capacity of more than 2,500,000 Ford vehicles a year. Its River Rouge plant, covering 1,100 acres, possesses its own blast furnaces, paper mill and has created a Great Lakes port. The company owns its own boats. It possesses more than half a million acres of timber and one land in upper Michigan and coal mines in Kentucky and West Virginia, with an estimated coal reserve of 600,000,000 tons.

HENRY FORD set a pace for other automobile manufacturers in mass production by his low price, mass distribution and wage policies. He started the business world in 1914 by announcing a minimum wage of $5 a day, at that time considered very high. However, his wage policy was accompanied by refusal to permit his men to organize or to deal with them on the basis of collective bargaining. His official publication states: "The industrial relationship between the Ford Motor Company and its employees is purely individual and every policy is designed with the intention of keeping it so. Shop committees, unions or labor leaders are unnecessary because there is nothing to argue about except in individual cases and these are settled man to man."

Another difference between the Ford Empire and other giant automobile manufacturers is that instead of having thousands of stockholders scattered throughout the United States, the Ford corporation has only one stockholder unit, and that is the Ford family, owner of 100 percent of its shares. The control is unshared throughout and the corporation is consciously directed to the vertical trust scheme, which seeks to take entire charge of a large part of the operations of the industry.

Henry Ford has always felt that his business was not safe in the hands of anyone not included in the family circle.

URGES PARENTS TEACH CHILDREN VALUES OF LIFE

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

YOUNGSTERS are counting the days before school opens. Getting them back to any sort of restriction is always difficult. Even grown ups do not find it easy to get back into harness after a more or less out-of-pasture summer. Let us try to be sympathetic with the children. It must be rather dreadful to go back to 24 hours a day and 6 plus 6 when the outdoors is more beguiling than ever, for surely of all the months in the whole twelve, none are lovelier than September.

BECAUSE the youngsters must get back to school, summer houses are closing and the exodus to town is beginning at a time which makes it seem the greatest hardship to those who love the country. Labor Day rings down the curtain on the summer comedy just when many of us are really getting into its spirit. Even those who can stay behind feel that it is the climax. How can they help feeling that way, with the merriment of the children missing and hordes of families vacationing the countryside. It is necessary, of course, to get the youngsters back to school with promptness and despatch, but it is quite unnecessary to try to point out to them, at this time of all others, that their school days are the happiest of their lives. It's a discouraging thought at any time. Who wants to be ahead so good as what is behind? It's a wise provision of nature that hope does spring eternal in the human breast, for most of us go to quite considerable pains to dispel any such idea.

WE ALL like to think of youngsters having a happy childhood, not only for their immediate pleasure, but also for tremendous affect on later life. Those first, formative seven years make a significant difference in one's outlook in after years. It is admitted though by the oldest, that any one of us would rather have his good days at the end than at the beginning, unless, of course, we can't help it. It is asking somewhat more than the lion's share at the feast.

AFTER all, how very little it takes to make children happy! The healthy young animal of any species always seems to find enjoyment in the simplest ways. Children, the rich, spoiled from their cradle days, are not, if you notice, as given more freedom of action and has to make its own adjustment. It's the ghostly, of course, never have enough to eat, or the necessities let alone the comforts of life, yet even the pitiful little waifs manage to get all of which seems to argue that childhood is a happy time regardless of circumstances.

OLD age, too, requires very little—a place in the sun and on the hearth, a warm blanket over the shoulders, and sufficient nourishment. Its needs are spiritual rather than material. In old age, as in childhood, one needs loving care and the physical comforts. Both are little concerned with luxury. So it's in middle life, during the long in-between years, that we demand most, and are most unhappy when we are denied the luxuries. The non-essentials to existence really become the things we then covet most. Curious, too, how we strain every nerve and shew reaching for such things as in the final analysis, are of little or no consequence. Whence comes this lust for possession that assails us? What impels us to wear ourselves out in a long struggle to possess, by one way or another, these burdensome things that bring responsibilities and make us old before our time? Almost from the time when we reach the power to reason, why do the simple things cease to interest us? Philosophers seem to be of one mind that it is the simple things in life that are most worth while, certainly the nature-given things, and not those that money buys. We women should try very earnestly to teach our children the true values of life, and shall I tell you why we fail so completely in this duty to them?

BECAUSE we do not know them ourselves!

WE ATTACH value to the most trivial things, and exert ourselves to possess things that have relatively no value, because our parents before us set up false standards and failed to teach us that they were false. It would be a revelation to most men and women to discover how beautifully simple life could be, on a system of revised valuations!

PROSECUTION WITNESSES AID LAMSON

the young husband again in his home. He had found his wife's body.

Overcome
"He was sagged down in a wicker chair," she testified. "He appeared overcome by grief. When I first entered I heard him calling 'Oh Allene, Allene my dear.' He sounded as though he hoped she might still be alive and would answer him."

Lamson, sitting between his attorneys, wept. His fingers were clumsy as he wiped his tears away.

Mrs. Buford Brown, wife of a Stanford Journalism instructor and intimate of the Lamsons, also testified to the young husband's grief.

She said she found blood in the bathroom, near the body, and in the living room.

What Lamson Said
Prosecutor Herbert Bridges questioned her:

Q—What did you hear David Lamson say in the bathroom?

A—"He was trying to speak to him, calling her 'Allene darling.' He was bending over her, his arms around her and her head pillowed on his breast."

"I told him to leave the body," she said. "As we got to the door leading to the nursery he fell on his face—he fainted," she continued.

"When he revived he said, 'How could such a terrible thing happen to a lovely girl like Allene, who never hurt anybody?'"

For the second time today Lamson wept. His face was red.

Resumes Questions

Prosecutor Allan Lindsay resumed questioning Mrs. Brown:

Q—"Was there any blood on his shirt?"

A—"Yes, where he was holding her head against his breast."

Q—"Do you remember whether Lamson said 'I must pull myself together and help the police,' or 'talk to the officers'?"

A—"It was 'help the police.'"

Another Witness

Mrs. L. M. Place, realtor whose visit to the Lamson home led to discovery of the body, testified similarly.

She saw Lamson, stripped to the waist, working in his back yard. He entered the house to admit her at the front door. In the interval he put on a shirt.

"We heard a peculiar sound—a sort of a wail," she testified. "Then Mr. Lamson came to the door and cried out, 'My God! My wife has been murdered.'"

She, too, testified that Lamson seemed crazed by grief.

"He kept saying 'My sweetheart, my darling,' and terms of that kind," Mrs. Place testified.

Police Protecting Irish

El Cerrito Prepares For Return Of Dogs

Request of John J. Jerome for the El Cerrito city council to appoint six special officers to work at the El Cerrito Kennel club which reopens September 6th was referred to Police Commissioner Hans M. Nissen and Chief of Police R. R. Cheek.

The six men named in the request were Paul Mengal, E. Bradshaw, F. Berthaud, W. E. Allen, Charles Retynski and I. E. Scott. Councilman W. F. Huber who presented the request said that Jerome intended to hire men full time instead of part time as before.

How Local Men
Huber also reported that a large number of local men were employed remodeling the dog track.

Councilman Hans M. Nissen was absent and Councilman Phil A. Lee acted as city clerk in the absence of City Clerk Fred J. Prosser.

Floyd Gilbert traffic officer was granted two weeks vacation starting September 1.

A communication from the Sunset View Cemetery association commended the council on its action in trying to have Santa Fe avenue changed to Colusa avenue. City Engineer H. D. Chapman is trying to have the county change the name of the street also as part of it is in El Cerrito and part in the county.

Letter Ignored

A letter from the Pacific Coast Association of Fire Chiefs asking that Chief O. A. Bennett be sent to the convention to be held in Portland from September 6th to 8th, was placed on file without comment.

On a motion of Councilman W. F. Huber the council rescinded its action of reducing the fire department from twenty-five to twenty-two members.

Lots Of Insurance

City Attorney T. H. DeLap reported that the city was fully covered with liability insurance for twenty-five members and the premium paid on the insurance.

That the insurance had been issued before the new state law went into effect raising the rate of the premium from $2.00 per man to $10.41.

Health and Safety Commissioner Phil A. Lee was authorized to have the creek in the Mira Vista district cleaned as it was a breeding place for mosquitoes.

To Fight Pests

Lee reported Richmond Sanitary Inspector Herbert Blake said that complaints were made to him by the residents in that district and asked Lee to cooperate in ridding the creek of mosquitoes.

Councilman W. F. Huber made a report to the council of a meeting of the Regional Park committee held in Oakland on August 22.

Huber said he thought the plan too ambitious at this time and asked the mayor to appoint some one of the committee not connected with the city government.

The rumor that Richmond and El Cerrito would be forced to join regardless of whether they were in favor of the plan or not was referred to City Attorney T. H. DeLap.

New Committee

Mayor J. R. Beck said he would appoint new members to the committee at the next meeting.

Chief of Police R. R. Cheek was granted permission to purchase a used typewriter at a cost of $20.

Contract between the street car company and city for the removal of the tracks on San Pablo avenue was referred to City Attorney T. H. DeLap on the suggestion of Councilman Peter Larsen.

How About Paying?

Larsen wanted to know what provision was to be made for the paving of Portrero avenue from San Pablo avenue west to the city limits if the tracks were removed.

Under the proposal Portrero avenue does not come under the highway plan of repaving which is to be paid by the state and Larsen wanted to know if the city or the street car company would have to pay for repaving.

Robert Dornan to Represent Eclipse Lodge

Robert Dornan was last evening named NRA representative from Eclipse lodge of Odd Fellows.

The I. O. O. F. lodge accepted with enthusiasm the suggestion that it cooperate in the recovery movement.

Ray Beck, noble grand, conducted the session. A communication was received to the effect that Eclipse lodge could expect lots of company on Monday evening, September 11.

Delegations from Evening Star and Arroyo lodges, both of Oakland, will be present in addition to many from District No. 61, which takes in Oakland. The two named lodges will bring candidates for the first degree and Eclipse lodge officers will put on the ceremonies.

After the meeting a delicious supper was served. R. W. Fidler headed the refreshment committee.

Glacier Priest Scales Volcano After 3 Tries

SEATTLE, Aug. 28—UP—The third-time "charm" brought success for the Rev. Bernard J. Hubbard, the "glacier priest," in his attempt to scale Shishaldin volcano in the Aleutian Islands, he reported on his arrival here today aboard the Steamship Bellwood.

The Santa Clara University priest and his party were repulsed twice by the storms on the volcano's sides. On one attempt they struck a 100-mile scale that almost blew them bodily off the glacier's slopes.

Their third expedition met with success, although they had to face a heavy blizzard all the way to the summit. Conditions on this trip were the worst he had met in seven years of volcanic exploration on the Aleutian chain, Father Hubbard said.

RUSSELLS LEAVE FOR HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Russell and children, Patsy and Benjamin, have sailed for New York following a long visit with Mrs. Russell's parents. Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bradbury, A. R. Bartlett, another son-in-law of the Bradburys also left last night.

Budget Is Approved After Row

can make offhand statements, but they do not mean anything. The time to check on these matters is when the budget is being considered, which was done and settled, and not bring them up at a time that the budget is ready for adoption. I believe we have one of the most capable city managers in the state in Mr. McVittie.

Praises Manager
"During my time on the city council I know that in preparing his budgets he has made every effort to cut expenses to the bone and every council for the past 14 years has worked with him with that end in view."

Then followed a colloquy in which McVittie told of some of the changes that had been made in the line of eliminating expenses. In the street department five men had been eliminated, in the engineer's office five, in the police department four. Some of the consolidation had been suggested, McVittie said, were impracticable.

COUNCILMAN HINKLEY: "So far as the budget experience is concerned, I have always been opposed to them, and can see no reason for spending money on the outer harbor wharf, but I am willing to abide by the will of the majority."

Excludes Cut

COUNCILMAN TILLER: "A number of feet we have raised the taxes about 4 cents, and that has been made in the general fund, but this reduction has been offset by the increase in the bond rate, ever which the council has no control, as the people of the city vote the bonds."

COUNCILMAN HINKLEY: "I have worked with the other members of the council in the preparation of this budget, and I feel that everything has been done to eliminate expenses. So far as the auditorium is concerned, it is a true proposition, but a saving cannot be made the next year, but the people voted for this institution, and it seems to me that the duty of the council is to maintain it and protect the property."

Then came the vote on adoption which was as follows:
Ayes—Scott, Tiller, Imbach, Hinkley, Johnson.
Noes—Ludewig.

After 22 years in Crockett, he moved to San Jose. Two years later he returned to San Pablo and had been living there for seven months.

He was a retired barber. He was affiliated with St. Paul's church

New Post Officers Ready for Duties

MARTINEZ, Aug. 28—Fall activities were being considered today by newly installed officers of the Henry A. McNamara post of American Legion, according to Henry Nason of Avon, who succeeds William Welch as commander.

Those seated with Nason at recent ceremonies were: E. W. Buxton, first vice-commander; Thomas DeLacy, second vice-commander; A. C. Gunderson, adjutant; Frank Dittmar, finance officer; H. Von Telrop, chaplain; Ralph Anderson, sergeant-at-arms.

BIDS ASKED FOR WORK ON VALONA CUT

CROCKETT, Aug. 28—Pending for several years, early elimination of the Valona cut was indicated today with the calling of bids by the state highway commission.

Estimated to cost approximately $55,000, the project will serve to remove what is considered one of the most dangerous sections of highway in this section of Contra Costa county. Necessary appropriations were approved more than a year ago.

The contract includes construction of two-tenths of a mile of highway from Second street to Loring avenue, and calls for readjustment and improvement of three private lots, removal of 24,500 cubic yards of roadway excavation, 50 cubic yards of structural excavation, removal of 560 cubic yards of concrete and 1340 square yards of bituminous macadam paving of cutters, curbs and sidewalks on Second, paving of Second and paving of the entire distance with asphaltic concrete and improving of a fill between the cut and Loring avenue.

The highway will be 60 feet wide and a 10-foot walk will be constructed on each side. Bids will be closed on September 14.

Long an eyesore, the embankment between Second and Third streets which has interfered with the vision of drivers, will be removed and existing walls, stairs and overhead bridge will also be taken out.

Heretofore, pedestrians have been forced to walk on the highway proper since there was not sufficient space for sidewalks.

Campaign for completion of the work has been carried on for some time by a committee of local property owners.

Last Rites Held For V. A. George

Private funeral services for Vernon Alfred George were held yesterday afternoon at the Wilson and Kratzer chapel. Cremation followed in Berkeley.

The boy who passed away Sunday at a local hospital was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar George of 452 Key boulevard.
